

14th June 2017

Unique User: 76,036

POLAR EXTREMES

Luxury has reached Earth's final frontier. After an opulent makeover to mark its 10th birthday, White Desert Camp - the only company in the world to fly into Antarctica by private jet - offers affluent adventurers fur-lined dining settings and Saarinen chairs at its stunning bivouac of six sleeping domes with ensembles on the White Continent. Guests strike out from the Antarctic camp to take overnight hikes to the South Pole. The camp is accessible only in November and December by private jet from Cape Town, on single- or eight-day itineraries. white-desert.com

10/33

Hot 100 2017: travel trends

We've got the latest on the greatest going on right now in the world of travel. Consider the Hot 100 2017 travel edit your go-to guide for good times in the year ahead.