BY PRIVATE JET (above and right)

Selling the world's only private jet ticket to the interior of Antarctica, White Desert charts a Gulfstream from Cape Town, South Africa, to host clients several times throughout the year. At the company's interior Whichaway Camp, a collection of wind-and-solar-heated sleeping pods with en suite bathrooms, everyone gathers in the stunning library/lounge/dining hall. Fur throws are draped over every chair in the dining room and guests sip blue-ice cocktails and enjoy a three-course dinner paired with South African wines. Adventures include flying to see newly hatched chicks at a 6,000-strong emperor penguin colony, visiting the Geographic South Pole, exploring ice caves, and kite-skiing. Short on time? Book 'The Greatest Day' package to experience the majesty of Antarctica in just 24 hours.

Details: Eight-day Emperor and South Pole trips through January 2018; 12 guests; departs from Cape Town. From $80,000 per person; white-desert.com

BY SEA KAYAK (below)

Dressed in cold-climate drysuits, Seabourn cruise guests propel themselves in individual kayaks through crystal waters, among glistening white-blue icebergs. Curious humpbacks pass beneath and poke their gnarly heads up to get a better look. The profound silence broken only by the splash of paddles, ice cracking (it sounds like muffled thunder), seals barking, and the explosive blow—startling at first—of whales exhaling. Experienced guides accompany each small group. For nonkayakers, there are plenty of Zodiacs (with guides) able to land on pebble-and-snow beaches covered with elephant seals, sea birds, and penguins as far as the eye can see. Afterward, you can enjoy a massage in the spa. The 650-foot, 458-passenger MV Seabourn Quest (classified as a small ship) has a 1:1 crew-to-passenger ratio.

Details: Several 21-day and 24-day voyages; departures from Argentina and Chile. From $15,000 per person; seabourn.com
