9 of the World's Most Gorgeous Glamping Destinations

White Desert's Whichaway Camp, Antarctica

White Desert

You don't have to be a scientist to spend a night in Antarctica—you just have to be really, really rich. Then you can book a tour with White Desert that includes a stay at their Whichaway Camp, open from November through January each year. You'll stay in a cozy pod that's heated and powered by solar energy, and even has an en-suite shower. To get to the world's most remote glamping destination, you'll take a five and a half hour flight from Cape Town which lands on an runway made of ice in Antarctica's interior, before being escorted to your camp on a rugged 4x4 vehicles.
